

Sharks

WJ 192011 en.wikipedia.org

www.sharksavers.org

In total, there are about _____ species of sharks

www.sharksider.com

www.express.co.uk

www.abysddivecenter.com

Sharks are in the class

They are so diverse among each other, they have a different genus and species.

Some of the common sharks are the Great White Shark, the Tiger Shark, and the _____ shark.

www.epicdiving.com

www.oceanwideimages.com

www.express.co.uk

Sharks live in a wide range of habitats. They can be found in shallow _____ regions, on the ocean floor, and in the open ocean.

www.dailymail.co.uk

www.arkive.org

www.abysddiveventer.com

Though many people fear sharks, they are the ones who should fear us. Humans kill about _____ million sharks annually.

In Hawaiian mythology, _____ Shark eyes are said to have magical powers.

In the same mythology, it was also believed that the family of a deceased person could offer the corpse to become a shark.

Sharks primarily eat fish, but some species will prey upon _____, sea lions, and other marine mammals

a-z-animals.com

www.clearlyveg.com

If a shark sees a large school of fish or smells a certain amount of blood, they will go into a feeding frenzy.

www.mirrordaily.com

www.lonleyplanet.com

www.dailymail.co.uk

Not all sharks are dangerous. The Whale Shark is known as a gentle giant and is the biggest shark at about _____ feet, though some are thought to be bigger.

The smallest shark known to man, the dwarf lantern shark, is only about _____. It can fit in your hand!

getfactedup.com

There are many endangered species of sharks. This includes the Angel Shark,

www.elasmodiver.com

_____, and Dogfish.

www.fishermansvoice.com

www.flixya.com

A sharks skeleton is different from other bony fish. Their bones are made of cartilage and connective tissue. The cartilage is durable flexible, but has half the density of bone!

Sharks' teeth are embedded in their gums rather than the jaw. Sharks regularly lose and replace their teeth. Some sharks lose about in a life time!

extremesharkfacts.com

animals.howstuffworks.com

