

Day Two: Choose one question to answer. Use support from the movie.

1. The diet does not seem to work. The Odone's find another alternative. What should other parents do? Should parents follow through even though they do not see results?
2. The Odone's throw themselves into the study of ALD. Is this correct? Should they study the disease? Should they leave it to the doctors? Why or why not?
3. In their web site, the Odone's emphasize that competition, rivalry, working in isolation, lack of funding and that publication of results often takes a year slow down progress. The Odone's take matters into their own hands organizing a symposium. Were they right were they wrong? Should they take things into their own hands as they did?
